What is Gentlo RF Microneedling and how does it work?

Gentlo is the only RF Microneedling device to offer 5 different technologies to treat most skin and body concerns by targeting different skin layers.

Radiofrequency microneedling uses tiny needles and radiofrequency waves to rejuvenate the skin. The microneedles deliver heat into the deeper skin layers to rebuild collagen and restructure the skin for tighter, even and glowing skin.

The controlled injury from the microneedling stimulates the growth of healthy new skin to improve acne scars, wrinkles, photoaging, stretch marks and many common skin concerns.

What is the downtime?

Unlike other treatments such as ablative lasers and aggressive peels, there is no downtime. You may experience redness, but this usually subsides a few hours after the procedure. Your skin may also become itchy and start shedding. Your clinician will explain this in detail during your treatment.

Does it hurt?

You will feel slight heat and pressure on the treatment area. For most patients, the discomfort is very minimal. Your practitioner may apply topical anaesthetic cream before the procedure to make the treatment pain-free.

What will I look like when I leave the clinic?

After the procedure, your skin will feel red and warm. Any redness and swelling will subside within twenty-four hours.

How many procedures will I need?

Your clinician will assess you and advise on a treatment protocol. Initially, 3 to 4 sessions are recommended with a 6-week interval and then 1 session every 6 months for maintenance.

What do I need to be aware of after the procedure?

After the treatment, you should avoid applying makeup and direct sun exposure. Keep the skin well moisturised and use a broad-spectrum sunscreen.
